SPRING 2015

She calls the colors "swimming pool" and "Campari."

Cotton sleeveless jacket with raffia trim, $1,225; avenue32.com.

Cotton-blend canvas and silk taffeta dress, $1,100; net-a-porter.com.

Serafina Sama for

ISA ARFEN

DESIGNER VISION If there's something nostalgic about the Londoner's designs, it might be due to her fondness for Slim Aarons's society photographs from the 1960s. Or it might be because of her mantra: to create clothes "for a real woman who likes to have fun, whatever her age," she says.

FASHION CRED "The aesthetic is feminine, sophisticated, clean, and relaxed, with touches of eccentricity, decadence, and humor," she says. All that rolled up in a smashing LBD? "If it doesn't make you feel good," Sama says, "it doesn't make the cut."

Lena Dunham

Look who was "seen" in a spring 2014 dress.

Cotton dress, $1,140; at Opening Ceremony.

Laura Vassar & Kristopher Brock for

BROCK COLLECTION

DESIGNER VISION She worked with Olivier Theyskens at Theory. He trained as a tailor. Now the recently wedded couple (and new parents) are making sweet fashion together with a label that combines unique twists on luxury fabrics (look at that organza!) with the pride of made-in-New York production.

FASHION CRED "The collection has an overall romantic sensibility but is still approachable," Vassar says. As examples for spring, Brock proposes airy, chunky sweaters, while Vassar loves the color combo of blue and white. "The clean contrast of white cotton with denim is really fresh," she says.

Cotton dress, $1,090.

Little House on the Prairie put them in this season's mood.

Emma Stone in fall 2014

Silk organza and washed silk faille dress, $2,990.

All available at A'maree's, 949-642-4423.
